Areas of Practice

Serious Crime focusing on violent crimes such as murder, armed robbery and kidnapping – in addition drug conspiracies, fraud and an expanding appellant practice both advising on paper and taking cases to the Court of Appeal.

Friedrich has a particular interest in difficult jury cases and cases with a foreign dimension, complex legal points and/or human rights aspects. He has an impressive record of securing acquittals in adverse circumstances.

Notable Cases

A selection of cases Friedrich is/was involved in:

- R v Chana, largest ever importation of heroin into U.K
- R v Saunders, drug conspiracy
- R v O'Toole, murder, contract killer wanted in several jurisdictions
- R v Asghar, murder within East London's Pakistani community; police failure to disclose witness interference resulted in independent police operation to investigate those failures
- R v Campbell-Small, firearms
